Head of School

Dear BCS,

This year we have been celebrating a decision that was made twenty-five years ago - to have the girls of King's Hall in Compton attend what had been an all boys' school in Lennoxville: BCS. It was a decision based primarily on need in that there were not enough girls for KHC to be successful and numbers had been declining at BCS as well. The transition was not an easy one with some resentment on both sides but the majority accepted the change with enthusiasm and a determination to make it successful. Students and staff who were there in the early 1970's have some funny stories to tell. At reunions this year, I have enjoyed meeting them and hearing of their experiences.

Their reminiscences have made me think about BCS as it is today and I wonder how we will remember this year. There will be the special achievements of groups, teams and individuals that we will have celebrated. There may also be your own personal accomplishments that no one else was really aware of but that you know took considerable effort. There will be activities, special events and trips that you will never forget. With the happy memories there will be some sad ones, for there have been difficult moments which we all have shared.

Then of course there are the people: the pictures in this yearbook will be your reminder of who you knew, who you liked to be with, and possibly who you admired. Look closely and you will find a picture of your roommate or classmate, people who you argued with or confided in. Your team pictures will remind you of the victories and defeats and the hard work that goes into being successful in sport. Those who performed will be reminded of the hours of practice and the sense of pride which you felt when it was over. Pictures of committees will allow you to remember the joys and frustrations of working with a group and of what you accomplished. When you look at the pictures taken at special events, you may laugh once again at someone making a fool of themselves (maybe it's you!) There will be the candid shots of those you knew well and those whom you now realize you wished you had taken the time to get to know.

I hope that your memories are good ones and that you will be able to look back on your year at BCS and be glad that you are now a part of someone else's memories and they won't forget you either. The dilemma of the head of school is that I don't get to know each of you as well as I might like. However, I can promise you that I won't forget you and that the doors are always wide open to old boys and old girls.

Thank you for providing me with some special memories this year.

FROM THE PREFECTS' ROOM ...

First Row: Skye Edwards, Miranda Young, Sandy Hanna, Joan Olivella

Second Row: Paulo Lins, Paul Morrison, Yoon-Seo Uh, Jamie McConnell

I was never a prefect in 97-98.

On this occasion, we would like to thank Major Turner and Dr. Booth for sticking by us through thick and thin. From the beginning, we had a strong motivated group of leaders.

We may have come across a couple of whipped cream pies and Sahara deserts, yet we banded together to pull the year off. While some of us fretted about physics labs and imaginary chemistry assignments, others trotted off to the shopping centre for geo class or to the city to take in some cultural events.

On behalf of Rick, we'd like to thank the Kitchen staff for the cookies they supplied. They provided him with a fully balanced meal plan.

We lived through the send-ins. Contrary to all of your beliefs, they're more of a hassle to us than to you.

I never...

I never opposed a bucket of jam on the top of Mount Mansfield.

I never forgot where Chapman House was.

I never consumed copious amounts of alcohol.

I never got involved with a 5'4" draggy thing.

I never HOTDOG! HOTDOG! YES SIR, NO SIR, MAYBE!

I never say Hi, Hello, Hey.

I never yelled shotgun for the driver's seat.

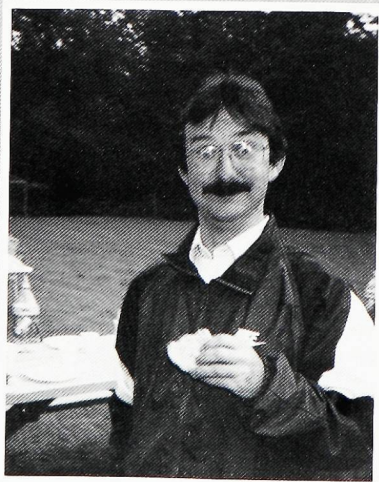

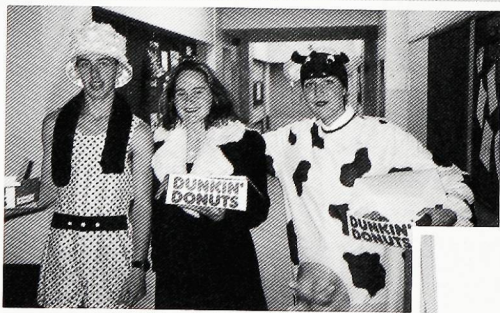

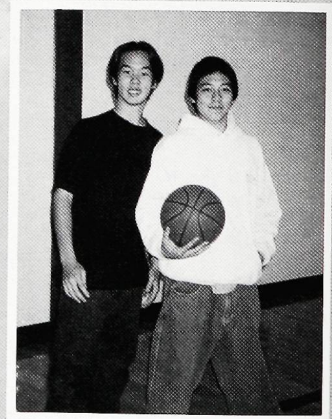

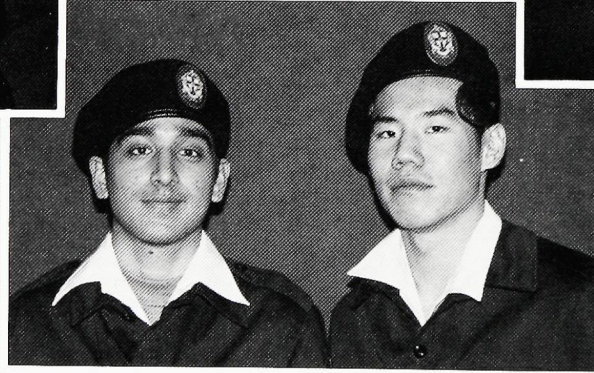

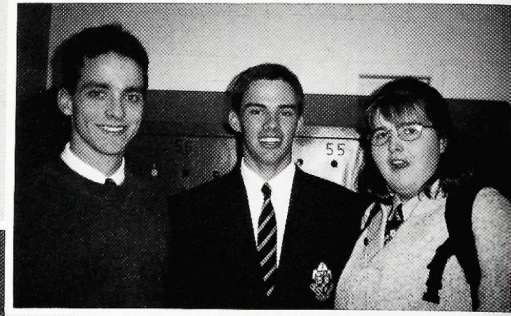

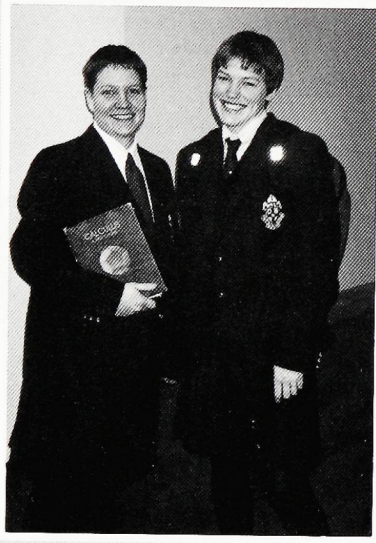

I never had Morrison open my sleeping bag.

Good-bye to the graduating class. We've come a long way to get where we are, but let's not forget the long road that lies ahead. We leave behind a great bunch of prefects who will learn that to be a prefect is not always easy. Sometimes you'll wonder why. We did. But a bathroom in centre stairs is your reward.

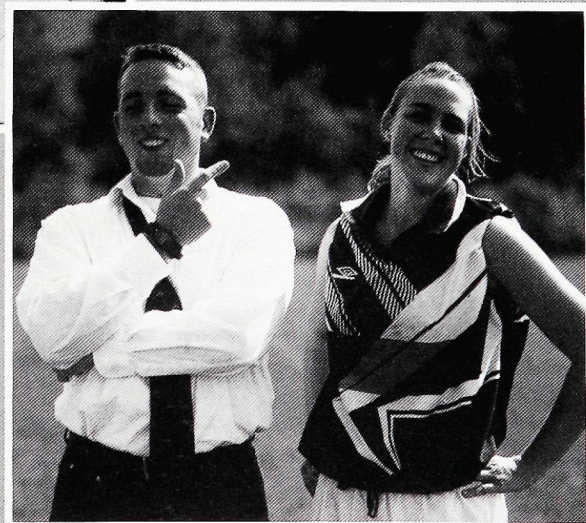

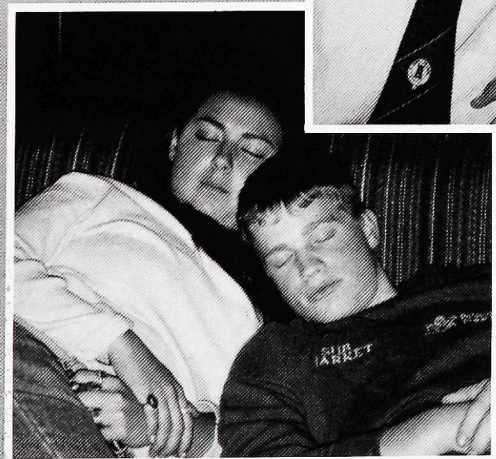

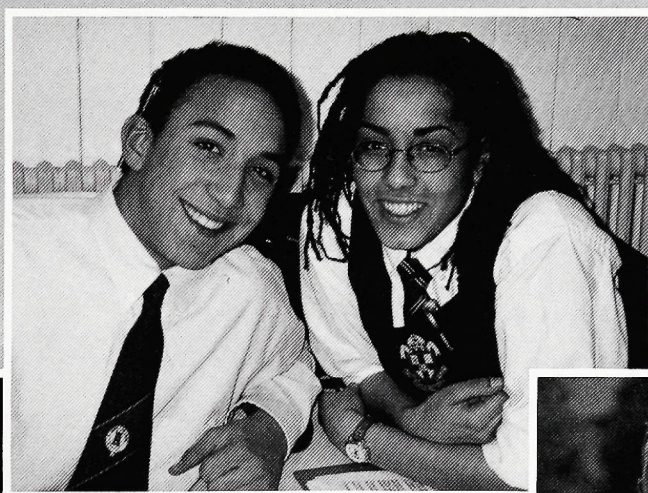

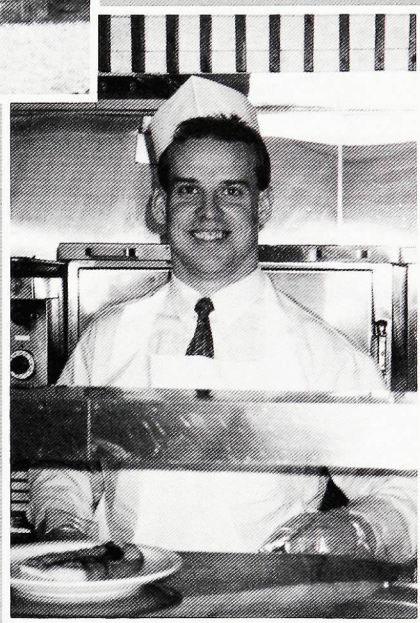

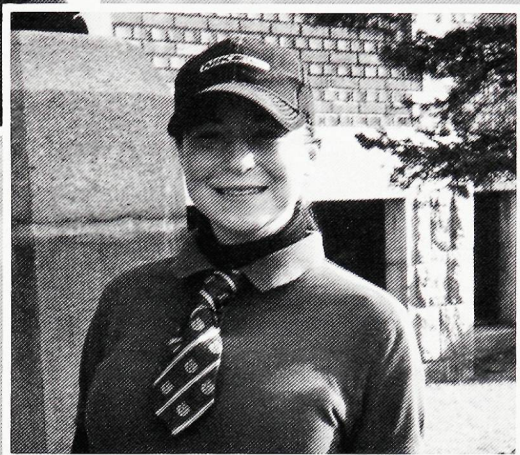

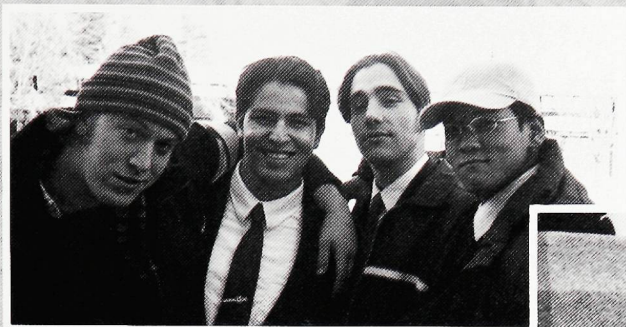

What's up with those shoes? You're sent in!

KRISTEN MAROSI

Well, 6 yrs can be an interesting amount of time, to say the least. But part of me grew up here, as lame as it may sound. Just a few memories that will probably be imprinted in my mind forever: the fushia cranberry blossoms in May and the snow laden pine trees in December. Thanks to all who directed me along the right path and thanks to all who smiled as they passed me by. I love you Schbaby and don't ever lose that Irish glow. Filtering out of the stained glass windows, I can still hear the echo of "God be with you till we meet again . . ."

JAMIE McCONNELL

Boys, its been good. Parties, girls, pranks and general insanity. Now it all comes to a close. We all go our separate ways and never look back. Before I leave you my friends, I must let you all understand. A wise man once told me: "The will to win is not important. The will to prepare to win is what separates those who wish and dream, from those who make it happen." I have crossed the finish line and won, but the toughest race has yet just begun. Don't worry, I will make it happen . . . I will succeed!!! By the way, 2004 is in Athens, anyone want tickets???

JOHN OSBORNE

This year has been a very interesting experience. Being a "retired" Piper, learning to compete against old teammates and friends in soccer and hockey wasn't very easy. ### JASON THIBOUTOT

Being new at school is hard. It's even harder when you're in seventh form. My time at B.C.S. was probably the hardest school year of my life, yet it was the best time I ever had. Being a Ross Boy had it's advantages, but waking up at 6:30 am, driving to school in cold mornings, and driving back home in the evenings tired, makes up for not being a boarding student. I have to say that I'll miss B.C.S. and all the friends I made. Right now as you read this all of us made decisions that separated us. Eventually, hopefully our paths will meet again.

Houses

Gillard House

As the sun rises, our own personal rooster, Maggy, awakes. Like clock work, Becky's alarm sounds the hair dryers and curling irons on the second floor. She and Nat are at it again. Albina keeps in tip-top shape running her daily laps. The music from Fallon's radio deafens the ear, perhaps the cause of Kelly being late out of house. However, Miranda is never late for her breakfast date at 7:15 A.M. Crystal and Xiao pick up Sara and Michiko from their quiet apartment.

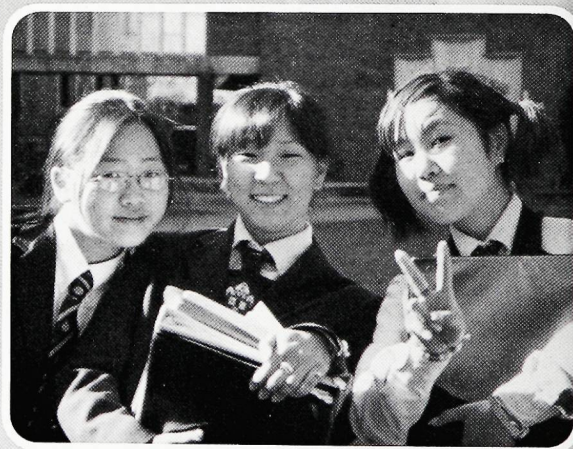

On the way to Chapel, Daniela G. desperately shrinks down deceiving the prefects about the length of her tunic. From the choir pews, the sweet voices of Soo, Anna and Monica are heard. During announcements, Rad builds up excitement about Carnival.

During break, Alex runs off to call her travel agent about moving to Mexico and Kit quickly covers-up her mistakes on her assignment concerning squash balls.

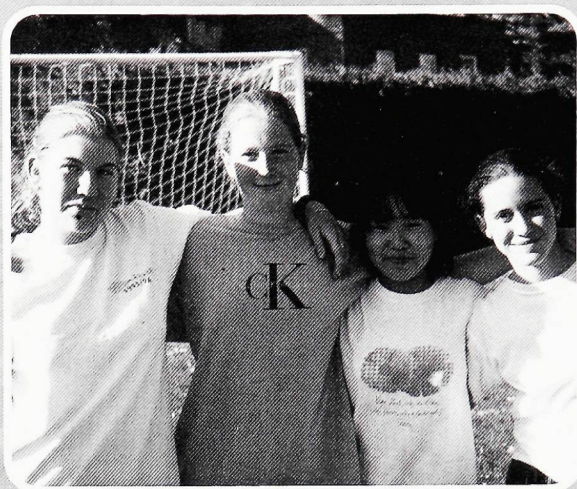

Afternoon rolls around and Sarah and Kate are found in the common room wolfing ice-cream. Beatriz prepares for a basketball blow-out. Kat and Anne set up a German picnic pumpernickel and gouda for all.

Jess takes on Miss Nelson in a violent game of Jeopardy. As Jina yells prep, Eryn kicks Jyoti out of the house. Angela arrives back from her weekend just in time. Julia bids farewell and adieu to Alain. As the phone is taken off the hook, Utshi gets a break from the ringing in her ears. Mme Mesnil pulls out a mot croisé. Rinko hooks up to her leg-defining zapper. Miss McGurk is called in to settle Liz and Tania down, again they're breaking the sound barrier.

Down in the annex, Victoria slaves away working in time for all three sciences, while Lindsay makes a "spectacle" out of herself. Skye prepares for imaginary chemistry assignments. Wendy's moves leaves her walking on glass. Mrs. Evans is caught setting the clock ahead to ensure an early escape. Daniela R. points out a bright light in the sky. Her roommate, Alana, quickly identifies it to be Halley's comet. Sleeplessly, Gluck roams the halls only to hear Joan making snowmobile sounds in her dreams.

Glass House

As Melina and Ritu, Curry Spice and Pepper Spice do wake up, Tat wakes up in the south-ward! Hisako is sleeping on the floor while Stumpy gets grumpy and Mel decides over breakfast that people hate her because she's going out with Brad. In chapel after recovering from CCD Emily makes a booming announcement that Yes, she can make a sailor happy. Hymn time comes and Alex hums along to "give me oil in my lamp, keep me burning." Over an in depth conversation at lunch, Lizzie asks Who, what, where, when, how, why, while Jamie is off bird watching as usual. Alanna, in front of the bathroom mirror is saying "I'm good enough, I'm smart enough, and god darnet, people like me." Sarah W. is in the student centre is convincing others that HADDAM and Hitler are the same person. Someone asks Sarah R. "Who's the new boyfriend now?" After school Debbie plays, again, the Titanic theme song, yet has failed to realise that it has sunk and sitting at the bottom of the ocean with all the FISH! The phone rings, Julia yells, "it's mine" but Jennifer Ho body checks her at the corner while attempting to answer it. Alina just walks by, but Jennie picks it up answering: "Welcome to glass house bakery, what Tart would you like?" It is actually Caroline's agent wondering that since she has recovered from JMD is she available for the leading role in "The return of Splinter." Marcela (La cocina) is in the common room while Beth hits her head on the wall, Ow-BONK. Amelia, Jessica's little sister, comes down to see whats happening. Chelsea's permanent growth on her neck keeps expanding. As Song-Yee is getting suspended from the downstairs common room for being too bouncy, Liz H. comes in crying because her charm isn't working anymore, she must be shrinking. Mariana runs around the house in her jogging pants screaming for Vero, "Phil's here." As Liz C. is on her way to Greece with her Tanga, animal rights activists stop her to find Nura so that they can retrieve her hair rightfully owned by the horse. After bedtime as Karen slowly morphs into Monica, Sandy got sick of the men here and ran away with her inflatable boy. Kimmi decided to cum on down for another weekend at the "greffards". Stacey is exploring Lenn with the Major at Three in the morning and the house still remains Sophieless. Mrs. Black finally puts us to sleep with another one of her, funny, funny jokes, BA HA HA!

Ross Girls House

The day in Ross House starts around 7 o'clock with the arrival of Stéphanie Colton. She sits there and does a bit of her homework. Time's up, the bell rings. As usual, nobody moves until Karine Bourgault and Debbie Parent stand up and go off to chapel. While everyone is sitting, you can hear Catherine Lecours fooling around or see her not wearing her uniform properly.

After Chapel has ended, school starts. But before it starts, Marina Scott-Wickens has to put on some of her new lipstick. Then Gigi Wilson, Maryse Laflèche and Sarah Teed head off to their first class never leaving one of them behind. Janet Cassar is very excited because she has math and she is our Math Power Woman.

Lunch time . . . Time for Valérie Saad to talk on the phone and listen to her Walkman. It is also the time for Caroline Côté and Audrey Hamel to play as . . . hole. While all that is happening, we notice the change in Marie-Claude Lecours who has lost her virgin ears. Bell rings, time to go . . .

Classes are over, crease time but not for everyone. Our friend Myriam Doyon didn't have a lot of luck with the soccer ball earlier on. But we have three athletes ready to play: Marie-Pier Desbiens, our goal keeper, Marie-Hélène Greffard and Christina Bowman, our basketball players. Whenever Elissa Jelowicki comes in, she needs something like "a pair of socks" for her crease or she simply wants to talk. At that time, Véronique Mayer comes in, proud because she just got her driver's licence.

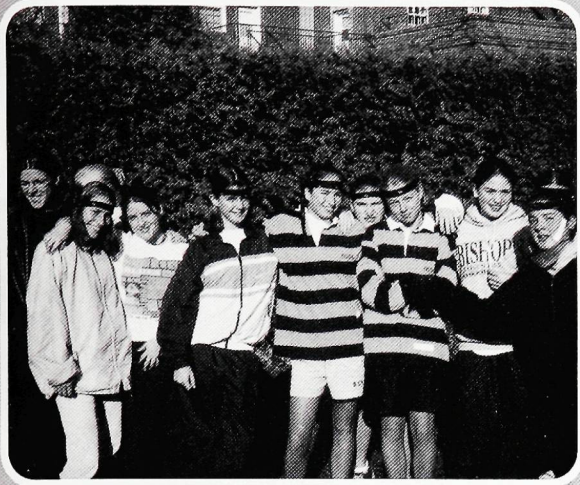

After crease, Sarah LeBaron-VonBayer, who doesn't like sports much, sits down and talks with our candy woman, Jyoti Shrestha. Unfortunately, Anna Purkey isn't often in school because she needs to rest. While people are encouraging Kira Doherty: Go, Kira, Go, Kira, Go! Bianca complains that she wants the phone so she can go home, change and come back to spend the rest of the day at school.

There are a few people who we don't see often in Ross like Kumiko and Jennifer Crease but they are important to us. While everybody is busy with their own business, Megan Popeil is fooling around with the Ross House boys.

Just before dinner time, Kristen Marosi goes home while Mélanie Saad is counting the minutes down for those "nights."

Ross Boys House

As John C. enters the Ross House common room, the day begins. He can sense Joselito's presence and thinks to himself, "Damn, he beat me again!". As the minutes pass, a few people arrive. Then, five minutes before the bell, a great crowd descends on the common room. As the bell rings, the Tribe assembles, with P.O. at its head, and Seb, Charles and Matt not far behind. Thierry, the man of the house, experiences a wedgie during these early hours of the day. In chapel, Phil and his two red-headed bodyguards, Daniel S. and Benjamin await the arrival of the rest of Phil's subjects. Just before the service begins, the other two red-heads, Eric and Pierre-Yves show up in the nick of time, followed a minute later by Biso (the rebel of Ross) trying not to be noticed by the prefects. Daniel W., the serious man of the house, seems to be frolicking around in chapel, for he is the busy mastermind behind Ross House.

Later, at lunchtime, Kevin the pokerman deals the cards to his posse. Through the game runs Fred, proclaiming, "I've got to finish my web page!".

After school the real show starts with Mathieu parading around in his underwear and composing the flo. Marko joins in, while harassing his neighbour (the God of computers) Tristan, who is silently plotting his conquest of the universe as we know it. The friendly giant, Louis-Philippe, can be seen teleporting away to his home as he disappears out of sight. Jacob, the consumer of worlds, is buzzing away into nothingness, as if he is lost in his hyperactive world of innocence and pleasure. Mike, the only man with a character, is accompanied by Rick, who seems to be present in school today. Jason can be seen immediately trying leave the school with John O. following behind him. And so comes the end of a more or less active day in Ross House.

North House

As Mr. MacDonald takes a shower, combs his hair, brushes his teeth, then reads his diary, with horror, about the 97-98 year's events and days in G.N.

Sept. 3rd - many languages; Korean, English, French, Swedish, Spanish, Chinese, Japanese, Thai, German + that weird language that Tony Gyra speaks; ex: Uh!!

Sept. 16th - It's around 3:30 am and I'm just getting up. Tae Wook, David, Pak-Man, Kevin, and Jody are all awake, working hard as usual. They are definitely the cream of the crop!?! But I wonder what movie James and Jae Shik tried to hide???

Oct. 23rd - Tonight was a very strange evening, I heard some noise upstairs. It was coming from Captain Cafeteria's room (A. Lngley) When I walked in I asked if everything was all right. Christian stuck his head out of the covers and said: FINE!!! I found this to be really strange.

Nov. 5th - On duty again. Our French connection went to Sherbrooke; they told me they were going to the library. I find this hard to believe. I wonder if they even know where it is?

Nov. 25th - Its around 3:45 am and as I came home from my morning run, I saw a small Mexican man climbing out of a window. I yell "come here" but he vanished. I figure he must be Sanchez "A Lover Undercover"

Dec. 12th - It's getting close to Christmas and it looks like Price will be our Santa. Then again if Gonzales keeps eating those Souvlakis, it could be close.

Dec. 18th - GREAT DAY!!!

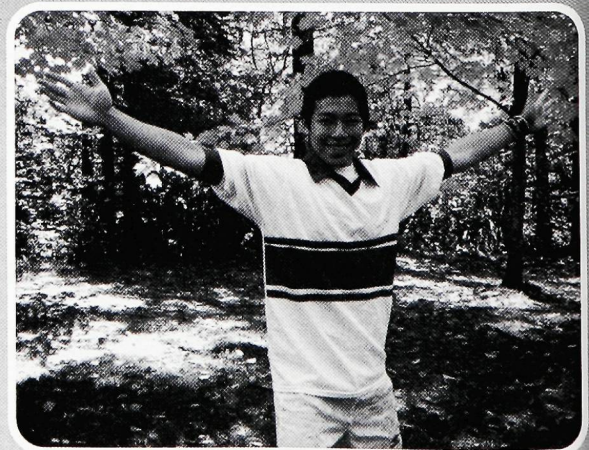

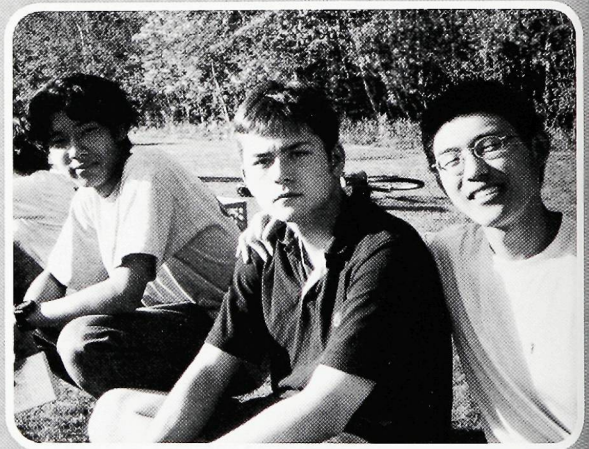

Jan. 7th - DOOM's DAY!!!

Feb. 10th - Received a call from Geraldine, to tell me that Veillette was . . . Then Susan called and said that Ho Sik was . . .

March 15th - Tonight, as I looked into Yat To's room. There he was smiling and laughing, but no one else was there. On my way downstairs, I saw two shadows - Takashi and Pholkrit.

May 9th - I was awoken by a HELLISH scream. As I rushed out, I found Adam pounding Auston with a drum stick.

June 23rd - Yesterday Sandra, Denis, Peter, John and I drowned our sorrows . . . In what I cannot remember! Though we will not forget. This year, when many things passed by . . .

South House

Hidden within the many acres of BCS sits a big nest where nineteen little birds live with their Big Bird, Jeff.

Big Bird Jeff is large and very strict and I guess this scared Luis and Alex away to other nests. We all miss them. Everyone enjoys the nest but one day Zarek, Luke and Devon made big mistakes. They were bothering everyone in the nest so Big Bird Jess sent them into exile for three months.

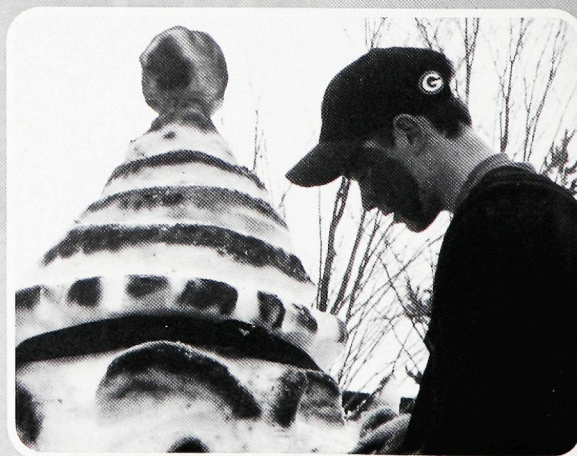

With our nest getting smaller, it was time to call in some new recruits. Big Bird Jeff called for David C. to come join them from the Williams nest and Jae-Ho was an immigrant bird flown in from Korea who already had a brother at the school. When these new birds arrived, we thought we should tell them a little story about what happens in our nest. Here it is:

Bobby and Paul singing and playing guitar in the common room - don't fall asleep or they'll get you! Mike M. gets beaten - what was that about Casino Night anyway? Tell us. Jason, leave Chris alone and get your own drinks and soup. The fashion war: Juan Carlos versus Damian. Who is the best dresser? Who will get the girl? Where's Gunesh? Where do you think? Try looking for his computer and you'll probably find him. Hey, there's David M. again trying to bother the Koreans. Will he ever stop? Will he ever learn some real Korean words? "Be quiet, I don't bother you guys." Yeah right! Robert, Mr. Santa, is always being generous with his Chinese noodles. He now takes care of his little cousin, David C. There's David D. lying in his bed, still, begging for one more minute's sleep. Soooo lazy! Why do they call you Monkey, Nick? Mmmm . . . Now that J.P. is a house captain, he doesn't need a reason to beat people . . . or does he? Will Chris ever win an MVP award? He thinks so. But Mike Cha says "No way, man. It will be me. I don't even need practice."

Well, Grier South really is a nice nest, except maybe when you have to do your house duties. Come on, guys, hurry up and get your work done and get to bed.

We experience happiness, sadness and excitement everyday and we will not forget Big Bird Jeff and his lovely family. Alyssa, don't touch that. It's not yours!

McNaughton House

One fine morning in the kingdom of McNaughton, KingNelson the Bald arose next to his beautiful wife Queen Diane. A toupee adjustment later, he lifts his great weight and rolls down the halls to see . . .

Justin Kennedy, future Revlon spokesperson, smearing on mascara . . .
 Paul Aswad "You're bigger than me? What!? You wanna fight!?"
 Dave Bissonette: Carved her name into his arm with a knife, still didn't score.
 Brandon Wu: Who?
 Shiggy Shiggy Shiggy can't you see sometimes your noodles just hypnotize me
 Phil D P: Black like me
 John K.: Village Grec - May I take your order?
 Whalid: Completed the three stooges

Williams House

Monday, 6:15 am, Another day in paradise begins at Williams, and like all paradises, watch out for the wildlife, they may be dangerous.

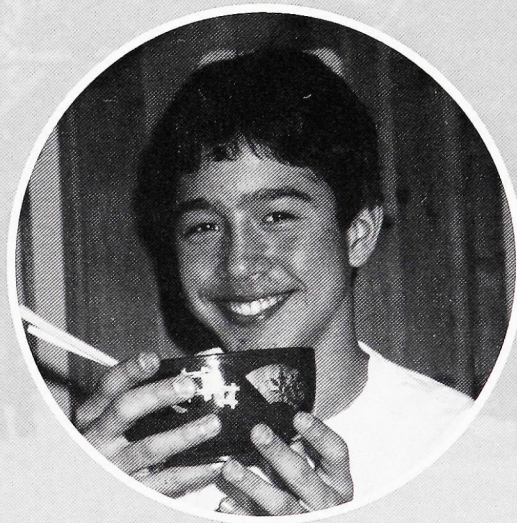

The creaking of the floor tells all that the early risers are awake, and soon it will be their turn to get a shower before they're all taken. Lets go Fritz it's 6:30, rise and shine, time for your lap, yes it is cold out, but we should expect that in winter. Yes Jason, Eric did do wake-up at 6:45, and now he's showered and dressed, now get up. Where's Alexis? oh right, he's moved to McNaughton, well in body, but his stuff is still here! Good morning Christopher, what do you mean Travis is asleep in the shower. Was German talking all night with him again? Where is smiley anyway? Wow David you're dressed and ready to go, was there an earthquake this morning, or did you set your alarm for the wrong time? - [Garth can I have a ride, and David too please] - Yes Vladimir you may have a ride to breakfast, the blue boat leaves at 7:15 sharp, [Peter too please] yes Vladimir. Good morning Peter, did you sleep well, yes you may have a ride as well, although I may have to put someone in the trunk, any volunteers, German?, David? oh well we'll decide that later. Karl turn down your music, we don't want to disturb Tara, well, anymore than she already is at least, what do you mean you think she heard me! OK everyone it's time to be out of house, those of you who aren't will be given laps for tomorrow, has anyone seen Hector this morning? I can hear his music all over the house, oh he's still putting gel in his hair, of course. What have I told you about not disturbing Mrs. J. with your music, or the rest of the campus for that matter. Let's go granny, you're holding everyone up, your hair is fine! Travis! What are you still doing in house! Can you say laps, Travis, Looks like You'll be running with Hector in the morning. Then you'll have to deal with the laps that Mr. Maxwell and Mr. Daigle give out during the week, just think of it as a daily fitness program designed for your personal needs, have a great day guys.

Smith House

The sun also rises on Smith House. The floor boards are creaking from the direction of Mr. Mooney's quarters and soon the words, "Time to get up," will be echoing up and down the hallowed hallways. This is followed with our ten minute, five minute, three minute and one minute warnings, and of course, the question Mr. Mooney must address each morning: to lap or not to lap?

E.T. and François are up early and ready to face the day, leaving behind what is reputed to be the most orderly room in the house. Chris and Jason are also early risers and we all depend on Jason's choice of morning music to set the tone for the day, usually something cool and ultra hip. Chuck and Gilberto need less coaxing in the morning than they used to and get themselves to the back door by clear-out. Yu-Yuan (music blaring) puts in his contacts, tries to get himself together and still insists that if there is anything wrong, it is all Kazuya's fault. Al and Yutaka go about their morning routine in almost total silence, and leave behind a tidy abode. What's that sound? Oh yeah . . Mr. Mooney just phoned Marc to get him up. Marc responds in polite tones and passes the message on to Fernando.

The second floor is a whole other storey. Jae Won arises, sleep-deprived and looking for his room-mate, (we haven't had the heart to tell him that he doesn't have one.) Brad has adjusted to Louis's absence, but still feels the need for company. Charles is off to do breakfast check-in as Chin is busy picking up all the bits and pieces of - well, we're not sure what - off the floor in his room. Paul and Pedro leave their breakfast tray outside their room and complain only mildly about the room service in Smith. Jamie makes his way downstairs, and if Chuck hasn't borrowed his coat once more, he will be able to face another cold, clear Canadian morning.

Special Events

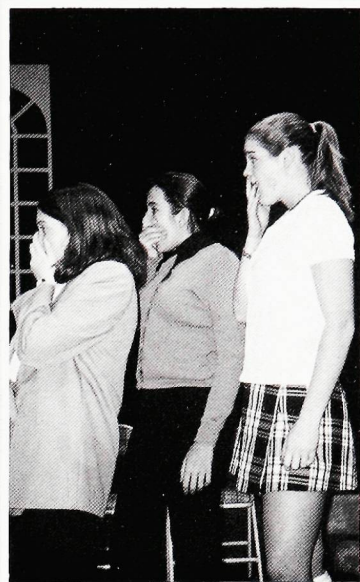

1997 will be known as the Players' Club's year of living dangerously. In only two months, cast and director wrote and produced their own play. The purpose of this project was to give students who might never be involved in a BCS production a chance to participate and to give everyone involved the sense that this was truly their show.

Theatre is always scary. There's always a risk involved and this play certainly was a risk for all concerned. Normally, the director walks in with the script, auditions the actors and much time and effort is focused on bringing that script to life. For this play, however, the cast selected the theme "beauty shop, barbershop and a week where everything goes wrong in a small town", and an entire month was spent developing the characters who lived in the town. A lot of time was also spent trying to decide where the play was going.

One day, Mr. Paluch walked in and handed out a possible story summarized in two and a half pages. After some arguing and modifications, the cast began to improvise the scenes and each actor wrote a monologue which would be incorporated in the story. Cast, crew and faculty contributed much to the show including many precious hours of free time. As the actors worked, Mrs. Goldfinch recorded them on tape and sat at the computer later, tape recorder by her side, typing and editing what she heard. As time grew short and to make everyone's life easier, she wrote those scenes that involved most of the cast and those scenes that weren't happening. Thus, a play was born!
